Mirror 1971

Bates College

Lewiston, Maine

Forward

The Bates campus is a quiet and beautiful spot to pursue one's education. However, like so many other campuses, the sounds and sights of change invaded the campus this spring. The pictures chosen to represent the Mirror theme will hopefully serve as reminders of the Bates of our day and as comparisons to the Bates of the future.

Dedication

August Buschmann, Associate Professor of German

In the college community today, it is difficult to find a man who is completely dedicated to the institution he serves and to the students he teaches. Professor Buschmann is such a man. Since 1928 he has served well the students, the college and the community. It is certainly appropriate to to dedicate the 1971 Mirror to Professor Buschmann who for so many years has been a part of Bates. The Mirror wishes Professor and Mrs. Buschmann the very best.

Auf Wiedersehen Herr Buschmann.

Bates Life

Due to a lack of pictures, the Mirror is not able to represent the many organizations on campus as it had hoped to do. Instead we have attempted to give a view of Bates life through candids.

The Bookstore

Buying books makes the bookstore a very busy place at the beginning of each semester, and it is probably the only time we see bills this big,

but it does quiet down eventually to give us time to buy the little things.

Sometimes serious study is a necessity whether in the library . .

or elsewhere.

Students can often be seen working with what they have learned.

The Mirror

The P. A. office can become a hectic place when the Mirror staff goes to work. There are always too many pictures of this and too few of that. Things get lost in the pile of pictures and papers, and pencils have a habit of moving themselves. Then comes the major problem of who is going to write the copy. The bills go out and the business manager hopes the money comes in. It seems like it will never end. But finally that last page is done and we can only hope that the finished product will look like we had hoped it would when we began.

Gordon Leighton

The Garnet, alias Annunciation, was a pleasing collection of poetry, art and photography by members of the Bates community. Co-editors Gordon Leighton and John Wing deserve credit for a tastefully prepared book.

Outing Club

Scenes like these are familiar to any follower of the Outing Club. The primary function of the O. C. is to organize various outdoor activities for days or weekends. A typical year includes trips to the Maine coast, mountain climbs, ski trips, canoeing, riding, camping — in all the variety of seasons.

Freshman Orientation

Orientation is a mixture of Batsie tradition and modern college life. Shoedates, a barbecue and O. C. games are part of every orientation program. The assemblies and faculty lectures, interspersed between these fun times, are attempts to shed light on the problems of college living. There seldom are any spectacular answers to the real questions, but it does mark the beginning.

Homecoming

Muddy Waters

Chase Hall's Fall Weekend was a rousing success. The crowds were good sized and enthusiastic at Friday's Coffee House, the Dance-Concert by Muddy Waters on Saturday, and the Sunday afternoon concert by Roland Kirk. All in all, it was an exciting weekend for students and guests.

This year's Cross-Country team proved itself to be one of the best teams in many years. Along with a rather one-sided victory in the State Meet, the runners looked impressive in the post-season competition, notably their fifth-place finish in the ICAAAA meet at New York.

The runners were led throughout the season by Senior Neill Miner, the Team Captain, who finished first in three meets and second in four others. The other seniors on the team, Steve Fillow and Jim Leahy, also contributed greatly to the team's success, particularly in the State Meet.

Winterval 1971

The Proposition

As its new name connotes, Winter Carnival 1971 put on a new face. The traditional romantic week end with hay rides and a carnival queen were not part of this year's festivities.

Instead, Winterval was planned as a fun week end for all, singles as well as couples. The activities included concerts by Ian and Sylvia, Jonathan Edwards, The Proposition and the Moog Synthesizer; more than 24 hours of movies; various outdoor activities; and a dance on Saturday night in Chase Hall.

Spring Music Fest

This annual musical extravaganza featured performances by many of the musical organizations on campus, including the Bates College Choral Society, under the direction of D. Robert Smith; the Collegium Musicum Choir, under the direction of Marion R. Anderson; the Deanmen; the Merimanders; the Concert Band, under the direction of Robert Shepherd; and the Pep Band. For this year's concert, the gym assumed the flavor of the Maine seacoast to highlight the unique music fest theme.

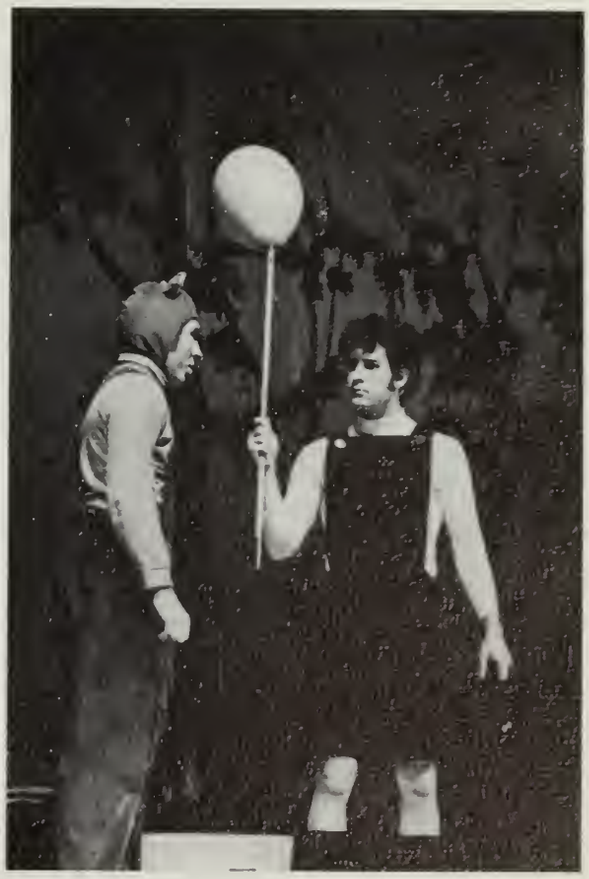
Intramurals

Intramural sports is a popular activity at Bates. The program is very extensive and participation is enthusiastic. As these football pictures show, dorm spirit really comes alive in this inter-dorm competition.

Mother Flag and Country

Winnie - the - Pooh



Manxa

Manxa, a specialist in wood carving and sculpture and a native of Brazil, spent three months at Bates as Artist-In-Residence.

Short Term

Fun and the sun have always been synonymous with short term, but this year short term brought many changes to Bates. The academic peace of the campus was invaded by the sounds of jack hammers and shovels as the remodeling of Chase Hall began. Tradition was also broken as Roger Bill, Hedge and Page became coed dorms on a trial basis. The courses offered during the short term also differed from the regular college courses. These included an archeological dig offered by the history department, an English course in cinema, biology field trips on bats and micro-organisms, and a mural project on Lisbon Street by the art department.

Students in the English course on the Cinema saw movies twice a week.

Biology students spent time on the Maine coast looking for specimens.

Some history students had lessons in archeology as they searched for relics at Arrowsic.

The weather during short term is fine for studying outside.

Another biology project involved the study of bats in Maine.

Art students spent short term painting a mural on a building downtown in Lewiston.

Commencement 1971

Beautiful Maine weather appropriately graced Bates College's first outdoor commencement. From the steps of the Coram Library, Mrs. Coretta Scott King addressed the graduates and guests. Commencement activities also included a class trip to Reid State Park on Friday and the president's reception for seniors and guests Sunday afternoon after Baccalaureate.
